DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 17-36 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 17-19, 24-29, and 34-36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ozaki et al.

As per claims 17, 26, 27, and 36, Sienel discloses a transcritical compression refrigeration system compressor 12, heat rejector 14, expansion valve 16, heat absorber 18, controller 50 estimating a parameter reflecting energy consumption (see column 2, lines 53-63 regarding capacity/efficiency/energy usage of the system and column 3, lines 43-50 regarding the various factors related to determining optimum pressure being within the skill of one of ordinary skill in the art) by perturbation (i.e., change) in high side pressure to determine an optimal high side pressure (see column 2, lines 60-63 regarding selecting an optimal high side pressure based on change/regulation of the pressure), and operating the system at the optimum high side pressure (running the system according to the selected pressure) based on a correlation between the parameter and the pressure.

As per claims 18 and 28, Sienel teaches using carbon dioxide as refrigerant (column 1, line 48).

As per claims 19 and 29, Sienel discloses minimizing energy consumption (column 3, lines 53-63).

As per claims 24 and 34, Sienel discloses estimating the variable according to variations in high side pressure to determine an optimal high side pressure to optimize energy efficiency (again, column 2, lines 53-63; column 3, line 43 – column 4, line 3).

As per claims 25 and 35, Sienel discloses compressor 12 pressuring the refrigerant (inherent aspect of the refrigeration cycle) to optimize high-side pressure (column 3, line 43 – column 4, line 3).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 20-23 and 30-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ozaki et al.

As per claims 20-23 and 30-33, Sienel does not teach the specified parameters. Official notice is taken that the temperature difference between a refrigerant and a heat sink and an outlet temperature of a heat rejector are both well known proxies of the energy load of a refrigeration system that would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to apply to Sienel as one of the factors for determining efficient operating conditions. Sienel further teaches increasing high side pressure until an optimal level (e.g., an optimal threshold) is reached (column 3, line 60 – column 4, line 3).

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
